

Native Medicare
Charitable Trust

Website UI/UX recommendations

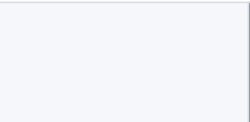

Color palette options and navigation structure for nmctngo.org

1. Color palette options

All three palettes are drawn directly from the NMCT logo, which carries four colors: royal blue (wordmark), teal (NMCT letters), leaf green and sun yellow (emblem). Each option picks one color to lead and one to support, and reserves yellow exclusively for the Donate button so the most important action on the site always stands out. We recommend a 60–30–10 balance: about 60% neutral surfaces, 30% primary color, 10% secondary — with yellow appearing only once per screen.

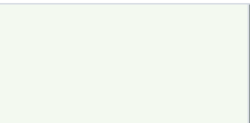

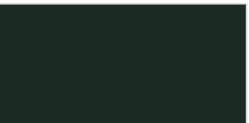

Option A Trust blue ★ RECOMMENDED

Institutional and credible — well suited to an organisation whose key audiences are CSR partners, funders and institutions. Blue anchors the brand exactly as it does in the logo wordmark, teal adds freshness, and yellow drives donations.

Primary blue #1B5CA8	Teal #0E9C8E	Sun yellow #FFC20E	Cloud #F5F7FA	Ink #1F2933
Header, links, primary buttons	Icons, hovers, section tags	Donate button only	Section backgrounds	Body text, footer

Option B Nurture green

Leads with the “Nurture & Nature” identity in the emblem — a strong fit if the client wants environment, livelihood and tribal programmes to define the brand's first impression.

Leaf green #2E7D32	Royal blue #1B5CA8	Marigold #FDB913	Mist #F3F9F0	Forest ink #1C2B21
Header, primary buttons	Links, highlights	Donate button only	Section backgrounds	Body text, footer

Option C Modern teal

A contemporary, health-adjacent feel built on the teal “NMCT” letters, anchored by a deep navy for headings. Reads the most modern of the three; slightly further from the current brand.

Teal #00897B	Deep navy #123B63	Amber #FFC107	Sea mist #EFF9F7	Pine ink #16302B
Header, primary buttons	Headings, footer	Donate button only	Section backgrounds	Body text, footer

2. What leading NGO websites do

We reviewed five internationally recognised non-profit websites. Despite very different causes, their navigation follows one consistent pattern — and it is the pattern donors and CSR teams are already trained to expect.

Website	Navigation approach
charity: water	Roughly three top-level items plus a bright yellow Give button. Extreme focus on the single action that matters.
Doctors Without Borders	Who We Are / What We Do / Latest / Ways to Give, with a standalone red Donate button.
World Wildlife Fund	Our Work / About / How to Help, plus prominent Donate and Adopt calls to action.
The Trevor Project	Get Help / Explore / Get Involved, with a highly visible donate call to action.
GiveWell	Giving Recommendations / Research / About / Donate — four items, evidence-led.

Three rules emerge across all five sites: keep the main menu to four or five items, never place Donate inside a dropdown — it is always a standalone, high-contrast button — and label menus by visitor intent (What We Do, Get Involved) rather than by internal structure (Organisation, Advisory Committee). None of these sites nests menus three levels deep.

3. Recommended menu structure for nmctngo.org

The current site carries around thirty links across six dropdowns, with up to three levels of nesting. The structure below consolidates the same content into five menus plus a Donate button — nothing is removed from the site; related pages are merged so visitors find them faster.

Menu	Contains
Who We Are	About NMCT (Profile + Organisation merged) • Leadership (Board, Advisory Committee and Core Team as sections of one page) • Recognitions & Credibility • Partners
What We Do	Health • Education • Livelihood • Empowerment • Environment • Peace & Public Cooperation • Safe Workplaces (renamed from Anti Sexual Harassment Program)
Our Impact	Impact Stories and Success Stories merged into one section • Annual Reports (permanent home for the 2024–25 report) • Key numbers
Get Involved	Partner With Us (CSR, Funders and NGOs as tabs on one page) • Volunteer • Students & Institutions (merged)
News & Media	News & Events • Publications • Media & Gallery (merged)
Donate (button)	A solid yellow button at the top right linking directly to the donation page. Campaigns and Donor Recognition live inside that page, not in the menu. Contact moves to the utility bar and footer.

4. Priority fixes (independent of design direction)

1. Single navigation source

The desktop and mobile menus currently show different items (for example, Home for Girl Children and Upcoming Projects appear only on mobile). Both should be generated from one menu definition so they never drift apart.

2. Donate link on the homepage

The homepage Donate Now button currently points to doctors.html, a leftover template page. A donor one click away from giving should always land on the donation page.

3. Statistics counters

The homepage counters show placeholder values such as 7,170+ years of experience and 828,080+ projects completed. These should be replaced with real, verifiable figures — credibility with CSR and funding audiences depends on accurate numbers.

5. Suggested next steps

1. Select one palette direction (we recommend Option A, Trust blue).
2. Approve the five-menu structure and page merges listed in section 3.
3. We prepare homepage header mockups in the chosen palette so the design is reviewed in context, not as abstract swatches.
4. Content consolidation of the merged pages, followed by design and development.

Native Medicare Charitable Trust • nmctngo.org • Prepared for client review, July 2026